

Trainers / AiT / Assessors:

We support trainer candidates on their journey toward certification. We create a partnership with our candidates that we call a "power with" process, rather than "domination/submission" or "power over/power under" paradigm. This paradigm shift allows us, along with our candidates, to carry out our roles in a spirit of shared respect and shared power.

IMAD - International Mentoring and Assessment Days

Part of the CNVC Certification as Trainer for Nonviolent Communication
(CNVC)

January 11 – 14, 2024, in Polonezköy - Istanbul, Turkey

cnvc.org

The Center for NONVIOLENT COMMUNICATION

MAD - Mentoring and Assessment Days ...

... we are offering this program as a step in the process of learning and development during the CNVC trainer certification process.

Your motivation to take part could be ...

- to finish your certification process during these days, if you and your assessor have completed your pre-assessment before,
- to get clarity before registration about the process and if it's consistent for you,
- to get to know the assessors, so you can decide if you want to choose one of us to go through the certification process,
- to ascertain yourself about your status, where you stand in the process and explore your self-confidence and trust in yourself regarding the certification process,
- to get inspiration, ideas and clarity about your next steps in your developmental process with NVC,
- to get feedback from trainers and colleagues,
- to meet trainers and other candidates in the certification process to experience yourself as a part of the worldwide network and to collaborate,
- to learn something new in community,
- and you may want to join for other reasons.
